Architectural Answers

Are you looking to refresh the current paint colors on your home, or are you wanting to change to a new color scheme? If you are making changes to your existing color scheme, approval is required before any work begins. When submitting for approval, homeowners must provide a completed submittal form, photos, and color samples. The submittal form is available on the community website at www.ColliersHillMasterHOA.net.

If you are only repainting your home using the same existing colors, approval is not required. If you are unsure what colors are currently on your home, you may email the Design Review Department, as the Association may have that information on file. Please note, the Association would only have records of paint colors if a request to change the color scheme was previously submitted after the home was originally built. The Association does not maintain records of original builder paint schemes.

For questions or instructions regarding submitting a paint color change request, please email designreview@pcms.net directly.

Application Review Procedure of the Design Review Committee (DRC)

The DRC has established a process for the receipt, review and response of all design review requests. The DRC will schedule and convene meetings as necessary to review homeowner applications submitted to the management company, PCS.

The DRC will do their best to provide responses to all request with 5-7 business days from the date a request is checked in. However, please note that while the DRC tries to adhere to the noted turnaround time, per the Guidelines they have 45 days to review your request. Once a response has been provided, a response letter may be mailed to the mailing address on file and will also be available by logging into the previous CINCWeb Axis homeowner portal at pcms.cincwebaxis.com.

Drought-Tolerant Plants

By Marie Kilty

As many of you know, multiple regional water districts are in some stage of declared drought. In many places, mandatory water restrictions have been put in place due to very low snowpack in the mountains.

How will my perennials survive with this drought?

The quick and simple answer is that most will do just fine. The blooms may not be quite as big and/or the leaves may show small signs of wilting, but really most of the plants that have survived in your yard for years will do as well as they have done for many years. Many lovely plants can survive and thrive with very little water.

If you're growing thirsty plants, things could get dicey. But think of this as an opportunity to refresh the garden! Plants that require less water are perfect for the Colorado landscape. Drought-tolerant plants are plants that can tolerate cold winters and hot summers and require little to no supplemental water once they're established. If you'd like to try growing perennials that can withstand whatever Colorado throws at them, here are a few plant suggestions from my list of favorites!

The pale blue to dark blue delicate flowers of the Blue Flax plant are beloved by most gardeners. This native perennial is one of the first perennials to bloom in the spring and grows up to an elevation of 9500 ft. I can personally attest to this as it is one of the only surviving wildflowers, spread by seed, that I planted last year!

Zinnia grandiflora Prairie Zinnia, Photo: Marie Kilty, Centennial Colorado

The lovely Prairie Zinna blooms from late May through September and can be grown in every type of soil, including hard clay. It forms 4-10-inch-high mounds and spreads to about 2 feet wide. It makes for a beautiful border piece and will bring in some pollinators as well.

Mirabilis multiflora, Desert 4 O'Clock or Colorado 4 o'clock, Photo Marie Kilty, La Veta, Colorado

This native herbaceous perennial's flowers bloom a purplish pink and grow in a mound about 12-30 inches high. It spreads about 4-6 feet (or more) wide. It stores water in a huge taproot—place it in the garden with consideration because you won't be moving it!

Worth mentioning as well is the Plant Select® organization and its website. Plant Select®, formed in 1997, brought together professionals from Colorado State University, the Denver Botanic Gardens and professional horticulturists to strategize about creating smart plant choices for a new American landscape inspired by the Rocky Mountain region. The website <http://www.plantselect.org> provides gardeners with smart choices for growing all kinds of plants from groundcovers to ornamental grasses to trees.

While the little snow pack in the mountains and the dry winter is a concern, horticulturists have researched and experimented with plants in this area for years. Requiring less work than traditional plants, drought-tolerant plants require less water and less fertilizer and are generally less fussy. Once established, they need very little water. Once committed to planting appropriate plants for the area, you will find a variety of choice. Gardening in Colorado is not for the faint of heart.

Covenant Corner

During routine inspections, it was observed that some homes may be in need of Exterior Painting, as one or more of the following conditions may be present: fading, exposed wood, bleeding, chipping, or peeling paint. The Association encourages homeowners to take a look at their property and begin making arrangements for any needed repairs or repainting.

Some driveways may also be in need of repair and/or replacement due to cracking, sinking, and/or displaced areas.

The Association appreciates your attention in addressing any necessary repairs and/or replacements. Please take a moment to review the Community Covenants, Guidelines at www.ColliersHillMasterHOA.net and any applicable Resolutions regarding requirements for driveway repairs/replacements and exterior paint prior to scheduling work. Design Review approval is required before any work commences for projects involving changes or modifications.

As a reminder, cooler and rainy days are often the best conditions for weed control and manually hand-pulling weeds. Use those overcast days to tackle general routine upkeep and yard maintenance, including:

- Bed weeding
- Fertilizing
- Regular mowing
- Pruning and trimming
- Reviewing your water management program

(Definition of a weed: a plant held to have no value, especially one growing plentifully and detrimentally in a garden, lawn, or bed area.)

Please also take a moment to check your sprinkler system to ensure sprinkler heads and emitters are directed properly and functioning correctly.

The Association appreciates your continued attention in maintaining your property and helping preserve the overall appearance of the community.
